

DIY: Easter eggs for the window made from vellum paper

Instructions No. 3313

Difficulty: Beginner

Working time: 45 Minutes

Even though it's still cold outside, Easter is just around the corner. Therefore, it's high time to get some colorful tissue paper and make beautiful window decorations with the little ones. The colorful Easter eggs made of tissue paper bring joy to the house and provide fun not only when crafting, but also when admiring. The best part is that the little ones are very proud of their simple artworks, which require little effort and patience.

Cheerful Easter Window Decorations Made Easy

Step-by-Step Guide for Colorful Easter Egg Window Decorations

Tear the Paper:

This step is great fun for the little ones. Grab the tissue paper and tear it into many small pieces. You don't need to pay attention to uniform or straight shapes. Let your creativity run free and tear the paper pieces into various sizes.

Decorate the Lamp Foil:

Now, generously apply glue to the lamp foil. A brush or sponge helps with this. Don't be sparing with the glue. The little ones can now scatter the pieces randomly over the foil and gently press them down. If you wish, you can layer several snips over each other; just apply glue once more. Make sure the entire surface of the foil is covered. Let the artwork dry well for one to two hours.

Cut Out Eggs and Add Hanging String:

To create charming hangers from the colorful decorated lamp foil, you need a template in the shape of an egg. Draw it on cardboard and transfer it to the dried foil. Cut out the eggs. Depending on your children's proficiency with scissors, you can assist them in this step. Finally, add a hanging string to the eggs by carefully threading a string through the foil with a needle, thus creating unique window decorations. Find a lovely spot and adorn your window with these original artworks.

Alternative Tip:

If the eggs are not used as window decorations, they can also be crafted into creative invitation or greeting cards for Easter.
